

VRChat instruction

Introductory information about VRChat

VRchat is a social platform that transfers interpersonal interactions to the virtual world (VR). VR is a computer-generated universe that can fully imitate the real world, but can also be a fantasy product. In both situations, the world of virtual reality is a 3D space that a person can experience with VR glasses.

VRChat is one of such worlds - a virtual entity that allows interactions between users, using 3D avatars. Avatars are 3D models that reflect human silhouettes (more or less accurately). VRChat gives you the opportunity to use the virtual world in two ways: through using VR glasses or a computer.

The first option provides full immersion, full experience with the virtual world, where the user is fully "sinked" in this universe. To sum up, thanks to the VR glasses, the user's view is focused only on the virtual world.

The second way, through the computer and keyboard or mouse, is less immersive. A user from the level of the physical world only "explores" the virtual world.

VRChat is a free tool that anyone can download to their computer. The creators of VRChat inform us that launching the program should not take more than 10 minutes. Creating an account should not exceed 3 minutes, and installation takes about 5 minutes, inviting a friend takes about a minute.

- 14. Inviting friends

VRChat allows you to create two types of virtual spaces - public and with invitation. It is assumed that we will present the invitation version. VRChat allows maximum 40 users to be in one room at a time (30 people is recommended). In order to protect the capacity of the room, it is available on invitation, so that only the "maximum" number of people can be in the room.

15. To invite people to a virtual, closed room, make them your fiends.
