The selection of key sectors of Lublin's economy aims to indicate which branches are crucial for the current and future development of the city. The list of key industries is also intended to show potential investors which sectors of the economy of Lublin have optimal conditions for growth.

Lublin's economy does not have a clearly defined industry profile. The high diversification of the industry is a result of, among others, the political transformation in the 90s, which contributed to the creation of a significant number of SMEs and micro-enterprises outside the area of sectors traditionally developed in Lublin, such as food processing. Currently, Lublin benefits from its multispecialisation, being a place of development of modern and innovative companies from various areas of the economy. At the same time, it creates opportunities for closer cooperation between science and business in a broad spectrum.
